Robison, Curphey & O'Connell, LLC Hosts Law and Leadership Institute Interns

TOLEDO, OHIO – For the fourth consecutive year, Robison, Curphey & O'Connell is hosting two high school sophomore interns as part of the Law and Leadership Institute (LLI) summer program. The LLI collaborates with the legal community throughout the state to mentor and prepare students from underserved communities for professional success through a four-year academic program focused on law, leadership, analytical thinking and problem solving, as well as professional mentoring.

This summer, interns Taylor Coleman of Central Catholic and Chryst'Ann Allen of Springfield High, will conduct legal research and writing assignments based on an actual case study, meet in chambers with federal and state judges, and spend time with a number of Robison, Curphey & O'Connell professionals, observing and discussing the practice of law.

Thomas J. Antonini, partner and LLI program coordinator for the firm, said "Robison, Curphey & O'Connell is proud to support this initiative and contribute to the success of Taylor and Chryst'Ann."
